FAIRTRADE

SCOPE OF THE FAIRTRADE TEXTILE STANDARD

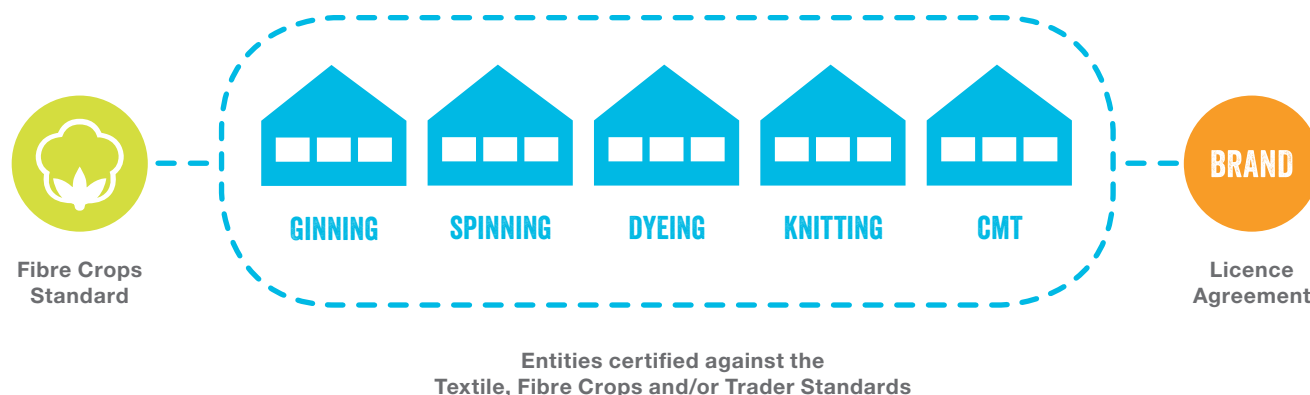

THE FAIRTRADE TEXTILE STANDARD

Fairtrade has always been about so much more than only the certifying of products. Fairtrade is about the people who grow our crops and about those who work hard at picking and processing them. Fairtrade already covers cotton growers, ensuring they get a fair price for their crops under two models, the Fairtrade cotton classic scheme and the Fairtrade Cotton Program.

With the ground-breaking Fairtrade Textile Standard, Fairtrade aims at making its impact more widespread to include the workers who manufacture textiles by facilitating best practices in the textile supply chains.

Fairtrade's vision for textiles is a world in which workers can enjoy secure and sustainable livelihoods, fulfil their potential & decide on their future. In order to achieve this, the Fairtrade Textile Standard sets the requirements that apply to workers along the entire textile supply chain which determine processor, trader and brand participation in the Fairtrade system under the principle of shared responsibility. Fairtrade's approach includes mobilising the actors in the textile supply chains to partner towards sustainable and fair industry practices for the ultimate benefit of the workers that make it all possible.

SCOPE OF THE FAIRTRADE TEXTILE STANDARD AND THE MARK GUIDELINES

Examples are not exhaustive and supply chains can be much more complex.

FAIRTRADE COTTON PRODUCERS

The Fairtrade cotton producers are not directly in the scope of the Textile Standard although they are included as part of supply chains that use Fairtrade cotton through the Fairtrade Standard for Fibre Crops.

FAIRTRADE TEXTILE STANDARD

The Fairtrade Textile Standard applies to countries and regions where freedom of association is possible. It applies to all operators employing hired workers in the textile supply chain processing Fairtrade certified cotton and/or other responsible fibres. This includes, but is not restricted to ginning, spinning, weaving, knitting, cut, make and trim stages. Operators using Fairtrade cotton must also be certified against the Fibre Crops Standard. Operators under the Fairtrade Cotton Program have volume tracking in place.

BRANDS AND COMPANIES

These guidelines apply to all certified operators in the textile supply chain, regardless of the product a company wants to certify. They also apply to the companies or brands that manufacture the products using certified supply chains. Licence Agreements engage brands and companies selling the final products to pay a fair price and agree to fair terms.

THE FAIRTRADE TEXTILE PRODUCTION MARK

THE MARK AND ASSOCIATED CLAIMS

The Fairtrade Textile Production Mark is always accompanied by a Claim that, when put together, emphasizes the ground-breaking and inspiring nature of the model.

The Fairtrade Textile Standard is innovative but has many layers of compliance that need to be met in order to use a certain type of lock-up and communication.

The Claims that are combined with the FAIRTRADE Textile Production Mark are dependent on the compliance level that the company or brand has achieved for its supply chain or chains. One Claim is always compulsory. The Mark is never used without one.

Placement of the Mark and Claim

The Claim is left aligned with the roundel.
The width and font of the Claim are not restricted.
The clear space around the Mark must be observed.

Placement of other marks

The clear space between the Claim and other marks is the same as the distance between the Mark and the Claim (x).

Horizontal placement

The Claim may be placed right of the Mark.
It may be set in one or more columns.

OVERVIEW OF SUPPLY CHAIN SCENARIOS

COMPLIANCE WITH THE FAIRTRADE TEXTILE STANDARD

The Fairtrade Textile Standard is about people, it's a processing standard for Fairtrade cotton and other responsible fibres.

Responsible fibres other than Fairtrade cotton can be used and the guidelines for determining these fibres are found in the Textile Standard.

There are three scenarios reflecting the different requirements regarding supply chain certification. Scenarios A and B, both signifying that whole supply chains have been certified against the Fairtrade Textile Standard, use the Fairtrade Textile Production Mark with a corresponding compulsory Claim.

Claim A refers to the achievement of living wages in the whole supply chain. Claim B declares that the achievement of living wages in the supply chain is a work in progress.

In Scenario C, a different version of the Mark is used with its own Claim.

OVERVIEW OF SUPPLY CHAIN SCENARIOS

PRODUCT COMPOSITION

Fairtrade cotton can be used in two forms: As fully physically traceable cotton from farm to final product or as part of the Fairtrade Sourced Ingredient model (FSI), through which Fairtrade cotton volumes are sourced from Fairtrade farmers and then mixed with other responsible fibres (after the ginning stage). Respectively, the guidelines for the use of the FAIRTRADE Cotton Mark and the FAIRTRADE Sourced Cotton Mark apply.

When other responsible fibres are used, the relevant guidelines for the respective mark apply when labelling items and for off-pack use.

The Fairtrade Marks can be used together on the same packaging material as the Fairtrade Textile Production Mark and associated Claim.

Marks for other responsible fibres must be separate on-pack.

THE FAIRTRADE TEXTILE PRODUCTION MARK

LIVING WAGES IN SUPPLY CHAIN ARE WORK IN PROGRESS

Some supply chains may be fully certified against the Textile Standard, but the living wages achievement is in progress, with a time-bound plan set in the Standard of a maximum of six years to achieve living wages when these are below the benchmarks approved by Fairtrade. Companies are required to be transparent about this progress. The progress claim is optional on-pack, but compulsory for all off-pack uses.
